RESEARCH INTERESTS

I study how moral emotions shape human and machine behavior. I build multimodal frameworks that detect moral emotions in English and Korean text and images, and find that moral outrage (anger at perceived wrongdoing) most strongly predicts committed user participation and is disproportionately used by suspected foreign-linked trolls. In large language models (LLMs), I show that steering internal representations of moral outrage causally shifts punishment judgments, leading models to recommend harsher sentences for identical offenses.
Beyond academia, my research on foreign-linked influence operations has received national media coverage, including an SBS News report with over 1.2 million views, and has contributed to policy discussions among lawmakers.

EDUCATION

Korea Advanced Institute of Science and Technology (KAIST) — Daejeon, Korea
Ph.D., Graduate School of Culture Technology, Social Computing Lab (Advisor: Wonjae Lee) — 2023.08 - Present
Dissertation: How Moral Outrage Shapes Human and Machine Behavior

M.S., Graduate School of Culture Technology, Social Computing Lab (Advisor: Wonjae Lee) — 2021.08 - 2023.08
Thesis: How moral emotions shape the commitment of political support in the online petition

Handong Global University — Pohang, Korea
B.A., Communication, Psychology, ICT Convergence (Minor), Cum Laude — 2015.03 - 2021.08

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Max Planck Institute for Security and Privacy (MPI-SP) Bochum, Germany
Research Intern, Data Science for Humanity (Advisor: Meeyoung Cha) 2025.09 - 2026.02
Research Intern, Data Science for Humanity (Advisor: Meeyoung Cha) 2024.09 - 2024.11

INTERNATIONAL COLLABORATIONS

Max Planck Institute for Security and Privacy (MPI-SP) 2024-Present

Data Science for Humanity Group (Prof. Meeyoung Cha); research on influence operations and dark web social media analysis

Mohamed bin Zayed University of Artificial Intelligence (MBZUAI) 2025-Present

Department of NLP (Prof. Alham Fikri Aji); explainable classification of moral emotions

INVITED TALKS

NYU Center for Conflict and Cooperation 2026

Max Planck Institute for Security and Privacy, Data Science for Humanity Group 2026

Reichman University, AI/NLP Seminar 2026

Korea Computer Congress Top Conference Session 2026

Max Planck Institute for Security and Privacy, Workshop on the Societal Impact of AI Systems 2025

FELLOWSHIPS & AWARDS

KAIST Fake News Challenge Best Prize (KRW 2,000,000) 2026

Global Advanced Human Resource Development Program in Information Security, IITP Competitive national fellowship; funded research visit to MPI-SP (KRW 18,000,000) 2025

Hyundai Motor Chung Mong-Koo Global Scholarship (KRW 28,000,000) 2025

Adventure Research Program, KAIST (KRW 1,000,000) 2024

Young-Han Kim Global Leader Scholarship, KAIST (KRW 4,000,000) 2023

TEACHING ASSISTANT

Natural Language Processing for the Humanities and Social Sciences (HSS510) 2025.03 – 2025.06
Led lab sessions on LLM fine-tuning, covering core concepts and hands-on implementation

Social Network Analysis (CTP471) 2024.03 – 2024.06
Assisted student projects on network theory and analysis in R, providing feedback and technical support

Social Computing (GCT576) 2023.09 – 2023.12
Mentored student research applying core sociological concepts to computational social science

Computational Social Science (HSS312), Selected as Best TA 2021.09 – 2021.12
Led coding tutorials on data collection methods (e.g., web scraping, APIs)
